

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

August 16, 2016

Oracle Corporation Joins the Copyright Alliance

Washington, DC – The Copyright Alliance announced today that Oracle Corporation has become the newest member of the Alliance, which represents the interests of thousands of individual creators and organizations across the spectrum of copyright disciplines.

Headquartered in Redwood Shores, Calif., Oracle offers a comprehensive and fully integrated stack of cloud applications, platform services, and engineered systems. In addition to its technology leadership, the company has a rich philanthropic history showcasing its deep commitment to education, sustainability, volunteerism, and diversity and inclusion.

According to Jason Mahler, Vice President of Government Affairs at Oracle, “By joining the Alliance, we’ll have the opportunity to work with colleagues in all different copyright fields who care about protecting valuable works and promoting innovation and creativity as much as we do. We look forward to being an active member of the Alliance as well as a strong voice on important copyright-related legal issues.”

According to Copyright Alliance CEO Keith Kupferschmid, “We are thrilled to welcome Oracle to the Copyright Alliance. As a respected industry leader, Oracle will bring a valuable perspective to our copyright community and to the efforts that the Alliance undertakes on behalf of all our members. I have long said that technology and content companies are not at odds with one another, and that copyright is important to businesses of all types. Having Oracle join the Alliance further supports that view.”

About the Copyright Alliance

The Copyright Alliance is a non-profit, non-partisan public interest and educational organization representing artists and creators across the spectrum of copyright disciplines, including more than 40 trade association, companies and guilds, and 8,000 individual artists and creators. For more information, please visit www.copyrightalliance.org.

###

For media inquiries, contact:

Eileen Bramlet

VP Communications

eb Bramlet@copyrightalliance.org

571.228.1906